Our Sponsors...

Speaker Acknowledgements

Sincere thanks to all the speakers at the VM Workshop, who have invested their time preparing session materials for this workshop, and traveling here to present them.

Especially:

- Richard Lewis of IBM, who already had a calendar so full of other activities that each day's entry probably requires several pages, still managed to prepare not one, but TWO multi-hour LIVE LAB sessions!  And then brought all those laptops and a couple large boxes of lab participant materials.

- Our future speakers.  Yes… _YOU!_  We're a very friendly audience.  Please DO give serious consideration to preparing a session to deliver yourself next year!

  If you've never delivered a public presentation, this is a WONDERFUL PLACE to start! Ask any speaker or Volunteer Committee member for their advice and experience.

Volunteer Committee Acknowledgements

Sincere thanks to all members of the VM Workshop Volunteer Committee, who have dedicated countless hours of personal and business time to ensure the best "up close and personal", and lowest cost technical education conference around.

And thanks to members who could not be present in person this year due to other commitments!  They continued to work on tasks while knowing that they would miss out on all the fun!

Volunteer Committee members stand and be acknowledged!

Speakers:

Please e-mail your session materials to: presentations@vmworkshop.org

They will be posted on the web site next week, or sooner.. "it depends" (sm) Bill Bitner

Who's the guy with the camera (still and video)?

A: Eric Schuler-Dalverny, yet another GREEN-badged Volunteer Committee member. He's taking candid and staged still photos this week, and short videos and interviews.

With your permission, these will be edited down into a short 'commercial' for the VM Workshop, and posted on our web pages, and videos on YouTube. Potential attendees can point their management to those locations, showing that even a $100 workshop can present amazing sessions, found to be very rewarding to attendees!

Why Isn't this the "z/VM Workshop", or the "'Linux on System z' & z/VM Workshop"?

Answer: Homage to our predecessors!

Here are pages from the previous workshops. Note that some of these meetings predate the existence of the WWW, and thus do not have live websites. No VM Workshops were held between 1998 and 2011.
